

LUCKY CLICK!

The Lucky Click is the most famous online auction sponsored by many international companies to generate Revenues from successful websites. Usually, companies offer the owner(s) of website to take the responsibility to bear all the ISP (Internet service provider), domain, it's hosting and links management costs. In return, they provide a commission to website owners. In general one can say that it is most likely to take a shop on rent for promoting personal business. In case of lucky links; companies do ask some updates in web content of a site but it doesn't effects the major power content of website.

Some companies offers to place their ads on successive websites or placing content ad (textual links) to make referral to their websites. Which obviously raises the number of visitors on both websites and it generates massive revenue. For instance, G-Analytics Goal Conversions are based on such basics.

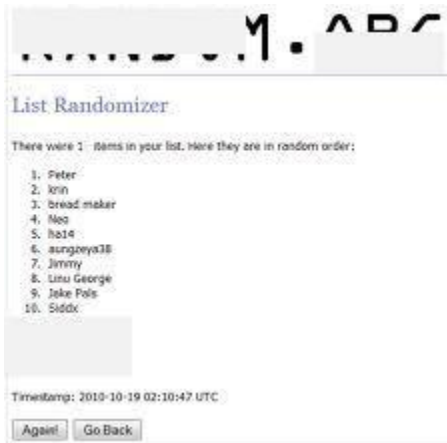

There are many websites which allows affiliation of money making programs which a user can run on his website or placing URL on blogs and social websites to attract more visitors. The examples are ClinkBank.com, G-Ads, Amazon affiliated program, etc.

We are also running a LUCKY CLICK program sponsored by tens of local and international branded companies. In 2010; total revenue of 35,841.17 USD was distributed among tens of these companies. A handsome amount was paid to our company, too.

In the year 2011; a budget of 20,000 USD is launched by the so far earned web revenue to sponsor poor students to get higher education abroad or just to win cash prizes.

Above it the pop up window view, which may possibly viewed by you when you will click on this hidden lucky link. A window displays the names of so far registered winners (Only names are displays). This online program is running on our website which randomizes the luck link each time a user reloads the web page. While surfing our website; we strongly recommends you to able pop-ups in your internet browser.

Winning amount will be transferred by the most popular online money transfer services, like pay pal, secure visa card transactions and online bank wire transactions.

For the purposes of this policy, the term "confidential data" refers to private company information or other private organizational information not intended to be disclosed outside the context of the company or organization responsible for that information.

Wishing you a LUCKY CLICK! 😊